

WELCOME TO World Water Week 2024

25 - 29 AUGUST • ONLINE AND IN STOCKHOLM

Bridging Borders: Water for a Peaceful and Sustainable Future

World Water Week 2024 focuses on water cooperation, for peace and security in its broadest sense: human security, food and nutrition security, ecosystem security, energy security, etc. – and the relationship between all of these. The breaking down of all forms of silos is a key component for successful cooperation, as captured in the title “Bridging Borders: Water for a Peaceful and Sustainable Future”.

This year’s World Water Week provides the forum to identify and promote opportunities for effective water cooperation. It aims, as it always has, at true global interconnectivity. Fragmentation is the enemy of positive and constructive change, which is why bridging all possible borders – real as well as perceived, imaginable as well as unimaginable – is key. In this, World Water Week reaches beyond the water sector, catering – through water cooperation – for the peace and security of the entire global community.

A MEETING PLACE FOR COLLECTIVE WATER ACTION

Water is crucial to all the Sustainable Development Goals but is often forgotten in conversations about climate change, biodiversity loss, food security, and poverty. World Water Week works to change this by bringing together many different stakeholders and offering a platform for collaboration across various global agendas.

An essential part of the annual water agenda, World Water Week is a recurring arena that connects international processes: a space to implement the commitments made at the UN 2023 Water Conference and a link to the annual Conference of the Parties (COP).
